

Dr Fumiya Uchikoshi
Academy Scholar, Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies
Weatherhead Center for International Affairs
Harvard University

Fumiya Uchikoshi is an Academy Scholar (stipendiary postdoctoral fellow) at the Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies, housed at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs at Harvard University. He received his B.A. from the University of Tokyo and his M.A. and Ph.D. in Sociology from Princeton University with a graduate certificate in Demography. His research focuses on family demography and social stratification. His ongoing projects include 1) causes and consequences of demographic change in East Asia, 2) the relationship between the “diversified” college expansion and social stratification, and 3) family formation among Asian Americans. His work has been published in Demography, Demographic Research, and Research in Social Stratification and Mobility, among other outlets. His work has been published in Demography, Demographic Research, and Research in Social Stratification and Mobility, among other outlets. His research has been recognized by two prestigious fellowships at Princeton, the Harold W. Dodds Honorific Fellowship and the Prize Fellows in Social Sciences, an honorable mention for the 2022 student paper award from the ASA Sociology of Population Section, and the 2024 graduate student paper award from the ASA Biosociology Section.