

Gay Liberation Half a Century Later

Gay Liberation emerged out of political and cultural upheavals in a world that was marked by the Cold War and the legacies of colonialism. Since then we have seen the development of queer movements across the world, and sharp political divisions around attitudes towards sexual and gender diversity. How relevant are the ideals of gay liberation in a world which is very different to that of fifty years ago?