

Professor Sou Hyun Jang
Associate Professor
Department of Sociology
Korea University

Sou Hyun Jang currently serves as an associate professor in the Department of Sociology at Korea University. She received her Ph.D. degree in Sociology from the Graduate Center of City University of New York (CUNY) and received postdoctoral training at the Department of Public Health at the University of Washington and Fred Hutch Cancer Research Center. Her research interests encompass international migration, transnationalism, and health disparities. Her ongoing research employs quantitative and qualitative methods, in addition to utilizing big data from social media. This research is centered on investigating how transnational ties impact the physical and mental health of diverse migrant groups.