Professor Sho Fujihara
Associate Professor
Center of Social Research and Data Archives
Institute of Social Science
The University of Tokyo

Sho Fujihara is an Associate Professor at the Center of Social Research and Data Archives (2013-present), Institute of Social Science, The University of Tokyo. His research interests include social mobility, with a particular focus on the roles of education, occupational scales, and social survey methodology. His work has been published in European Sociological Review, Social Science Research, Socius, Research in Social Stratification and Mobility, among others.

He is a board member of the International Sociological Association Research Committee 28 (Social Stratification) and a co-PI of the 2025 SSM (Social Stratification and Social Mobility) Survey Project.