

Sangsoo Lee

Assistant Professor
Department of Sociology
Korea University

Sangsoo Lee is a social demographer studying family, gender, and inequality across various stages of the life course. He is particularly interested in issues related to marital formation, dissolution, and repartnering, and how gender dynamics operate within marriage and family. His research often takes a cross-national comparative perspective, with a regional focus on South Korea and other East Asian societies. He is currently an Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology and the Deputy Director of the Institute on Aging at Korea University. He earned his Ph.D. in Demography and Sociology from the University of Pennsylvania.
