Qiushi Feng
Associate Professor
Department of Sociology and Anthropology
National University of Singapore

Feng Qiushi received his PhD from Duke University and is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the National University of Singapore (NUS). He currently serves as Deputy Head of the department, Assistant Dean in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at NUS, and Vice President of the Population Association of Singapore (PAS). His research focuses on aging and health, population studies, and population and development, with a strong emphasis on interdisciplinary approaches. He has published extensively in these areas. He is Co-Editor of Current Sociology, Associate Editor of Asian Population Studies, and Deputy Editor of the International Journal of Population Studies. He also serves on the editorial boards of several leading international journals, including the Journal of the American Geriatrics Society, Nutrients, Aging and Health Research, The Journals of Gerontology: Social Sciences, Journal of Aging and Health, and Research on Aging. In addition, he is co-editing two Springer book series: Advances in Studies of Aging and Health (with Danan Gu) and Asian Population Studies (with Aris Ananta). His research has been supported by the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (UN ESCAP), the Singapore Ministry of Education (MOE), and the National Medical Research Council (NMRC).