

Xiaoguang FAN
Associate Professor
School of Public Affairs
Zhejiang University

Xiaoguang Fan is an associate professor of sociology at Zhejiang University. His research covers the fields of social stratification, sociology of sociology, and computational social science. His work has been published in leading international journals, including the British Journal of Sociology, Social Science Research, and Chinese Sociological Review. He was investigating how macro-societal forces reshape the formation, beliefs, and behavior in the transitional society. He was a visiting scholar at the University of Oxford. He also serves the academic community through roles on the Steering Committee for the World Elite Database and the ISA RC45 Board.